

Letter from the Editors

Dear Readers, Authors, Reviewer, and Friends:

We are proud of our International Journal of Integrative Pediatrics and Environmental Medicine, which was established in 2014 and continues to maintain high standards. Although we cannot boast an extraordinary number of publications, we are quite satisfied by the quality of publications. Each manuscript was vigorously reviewed by respected specialists in the appropriate field of study and carefully selected for publication. Our linguistic service insured proper English language was used, and papers are easy to read and understand.

Last year's manuscripts included valuable papers from American and Ukrainian authors focused on new discoveries, cutting-edge research, and economic theories. We also published case reports.

In 2019, we undertook the complicated process of changing publishers and applying software adjustments and upgrades. We maintain an enthusiastic group of editors, who are ready to help authors through the process from submission, on to every step to manuscript publication. The recent upgrades brought us closer to our goal to become a member of the family of PubMed journals. The professionalism of our team will lead us to our goal.

We want to invite you to publish with us. Our publication interests relate to the objectives of the journal. We seek manuscripts about practical information on physiological, pharmacological, psychological, and pathological forces that impact children. Manuscripts funded by NIH or their partners will be indexed as PubMed selected citations.

We hope that you will consider our journal for your next publication. For details, please, visit our webpage: <https://www.ijipem.com/index.php/ijipem>.

Please feel free to email me with any questions, suggestions, or comments at: t.vasylyeva@ijipem.com

Best regards for a happy, productive 2020,

Tetyana L. Vasylyeva MD, PhD

Managing Editor

International Journal of Integrative Pediatrics and Environmental Medicine